Beyond the Classroom: Educational Dialogues Across Québec and Denmark

Invitation to students interested in teaching and learning beyond the classroom

This webinar brings together two research communities – one based in the province of Québec, Canada, and the other in Denmark – both engaged in studying teaching and learning outside of formal school classroom settings, often in natural or cultural environments.

This is a chance to explore conversations we have together – where our perspectives align and where they differ. In this webinar, we aim to share our research, discuss how it connects to practice and policy, and reflect on the conceptual foundations that guide our work.

The webinar is open to Masters and PhD students, as well as researchers with interest, and will include plenty of time for questions and dialogue. We encourage you to come prepared with questions or reflections you'd like to share.

Join us for a webinar where your curiosity and questions find
space!
