

Instructions for authors

Authors are invited to publish on the blog on the following topics:

- Ideas and reflections on multimorbidity related to any areas of interest : conceptualization, measure, epidemiology, impact, models of care, interventions, case reports ;
- Summaries of recent publications and links to their paper according to the rules and copyright of the journal they have been published in;
- Summary of recent activities related to the multimorbidity research agenda and particularly activities with an international participation ;
- Advertisements for international conferences with a focus on multimorbidity ;
- Calls for collaboration on topics related to the multimorbidity agenda.
- Posting are focused and of a limited length (250 to 800 words).
- Authors are invited to identify the keyword most appropriate for their posting among the following (more than one may apply)
 - Theory, concept and measure
 - Epidemiology and outcomes research
 - Care model
 - Intervention
 - Practice guidelines
 - Health care policy
 - Event

All researchers or clinicians interested in disseminating new knowledge on multimorbidity or wishing to promote a debate on any aspect related to it are invited to participate as authors. The text written according to the above instructions should be sent to the following e-mail address: jose.almirall@usherbrooke.ca.