

LORELIE BOUCHARD

Master of Education (M.Ed.)

Lorelie Bouchard teaches Geography and Tourism at Champlain College St. Lambert. When her career went from planning travel to teaching travel, she realized she needed to go back to school herself and develop sound pedagogical practices. This led her to the MTP program where she completed her masters 2009 and began teaching in 2013. Areas of interest are course design, group work, and teaching with technology. Working with the digital competency framework has been a major focus of the past few years.
