Extremely sad and confused. I would be unimaginable grow up out my father's love support and I hope I can find a home.	I would be lost in all what would be happening and I would just want to go home.	I can't imagine My childhood away from my home and away from my family. I would feel very sad, lost and abandoned. I hope this never happens again to anyone.	I would feel very scared and confused as to why they are taking me away at such a young age. I would also feel lost because I have no guidance.	I would have found it very difficult because I am really close to my family and I would have been really scared.	I would have felt scared and lost without them.	I would feel very lost and scared as a six year old. I need my parents to teach me.	I would feel lost and without guidance. My parents are my life and I don't know what I would do without them.	I would feel lost and without guidance. My parents are my life and I don't know what I would do without them.	I would feel alone, and wouldn't know what to do. I wasn't exactly independent at 6 years old.

Orange Shirt Day Every Child Matters

A six-year-old girl named Phyllis was proud to wear her shiny new orange shirt for her first day of school. When she got there they took it away and she never saw it again.

The orange shirt has become a symbol to help us remember that the residential schools made children feel that no one cared and that they didn't matter. Remember their tears. Wear orange on September 30th to show "Every Child Matters."
